

Join Greg Bottrill, author of the bestselling ‘Can I Go And Play Now?’ and ‘School and the Magic of Children’ to explore the art of co-playing and how to shape children’s learning experiences in the adventure that they deserve and need. Across the day, Greg will look at developing confident interactions, introduce Next Steps planning and its companion Doughnut and Dinner Party planning concepts, explore the power of the 3M’s approach to all areas of EYFS, the potential of the Magic Mirror toolkit to identify areas for development, ways of levelling up early writing with the Message Centre as well as ways to explore the joy of early with a host of takeaways to implement as an added layer of magic over your practice.

Content for the day

- Create the ideal learning landscape
- Develop confident interactions
- Discover the impact of Next Steps planning
- Explore the power of the 3M’s approach to all areas of EYFS
- Evaluate your practice with the Magic Mirror toolkit to identify areas for development
- Level up early writing with the Message Centre Masterclass – THE way to bring joy and energy to early writing
- Learn the beauty of IVA – three steps to success

Greg Bottrill is an educational thinker and author who is passionate about childhood and the magic of children.

His first book “Can I Go And Play Now?” has gone on to become a bestseller. His second book “School and the Magic of Children” explores the concepts of the Essential Self.

Wednesday 9th March 2022 (9.00am – 3.30pm)

The BTSA Hub

COST: £185 per person.

Please book by emailing office@btsa.org